

Miami University - Oxford, Ohio

Assistant Teaching Professor/Assistant Lecturer of Mathematics College of Arts and Science

Job Summary

Assistant Teaching Professor/Assistant Lecturer (non-tenure track) to teach undergraduate mathematics content courses for K-9 preservice teachers in the Department of Mathematics; and provide service to the profession of teaching, department, college, and/or institution. Position begins August 2023.

Qualifications

Minimum: Ph.D. in mathematics education or closely related field by date of appointment for an appointment as Assistant Teaching Professor; Master's degree in mathematics education or closely related field by date of appointment for an appointment as Assistant Lecturer. Teaching experience is required for both positions. Candidates must be authorized to work in the United States on a fulltime and indefinite basis.

Desired: Consideration may be given to candidates with teaching experience in a K-12 setting that includes using inquiry-based methods and developing curriculum; willingness to collaborate with mathematics education colleagues in the Department of Mathematics and the Department of Teaching, Curriculum, and Educational Inquiry; experience facilitating professional development for teachers; and familiarity with grant writing.

Special Instructions to Applicants

Submit cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy, description of courses taught previously, graduate transcript, and a one-page diversity statement addressing past and/or potential contributions to advancing diversity, equity, and inclusion through research, teaching, and/or service. For candidates selected by the search committee for a phone interview, the department will request letters of recommendation from the three references listed in the application. Inquiries may be directed to Dr. Wayne Nirode at nirodew@miamioh.edu.

Screening of applications will begin January 2, 2023 and will continue until the position is filled.
