

Education Department Lecturer – Math Education

Brown University's Department of Education seeks an outstanding teacher educator with a commitment to advancing educational equity in urban schools to join our dynamic and growing department as a Lecturer in Math Education beginning June 2020. The faculty member in this position will provide leadership, teaching, supervision and advising to each cohort of candidates in an intensive one-year Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT). They will teach graduate courses in teacher education; supervise student-teacher experiences; participate in the recruitment and admissions process of the MAT program, and teach additional undergraduate courses in areas of expertise related to education. The faculty member teaches in all semesters of an eleven-month program and participates in the summer MAT professional development program that provides MAT candidates with their first teaching experience with urban youth. The position is for a three-year renewable term.

Applicants must have a master's degree or a doctorate in Education, Mathematics, or related content fields. A doctorate is preferred. Applicants must also have significant experience in secondary teaching and the teaching and supervision of new teachers; strong knowledge of secondary mathematics pedagogy and national standards related to the discipline; an ability to work closely and productively with school and university colleagues; and a commitment to advancing educational equity in urban schools. Additionally, the search committee encourages applicants who bring professional expertise in supporting linguistic diversity and the shifting student demographics in public schools; sustaining equitable, culturally responsive and inclusive learning environments; supporting students with disabilities and learning differences; promoting social-emotional development in adolescents; teacher preparation and development across the career; and/or strengthening communities and networks of practice.

Review of applications will begin October 20, 2019, and continue until the position is filled or the search is closed. Please apply on-line at <http://apply.interfolio.com/68152>. Please include a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and three letters of reference. Questions regarding the position can be directed to Diane Silva Pimentel (Diane_Silva_Pimentel@brown.edu), Chair of the MAT Faculty Search Committee and questions regarding the application process can be directed to Heather Johnson, Academic Department Manager (heather_johnson@brown.edu). For information about the Department, please access our web page at: www.brown.edu/education.

Brown University is committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic global community; as an EEO/AA employer, Brown considers applicants for employment without regard to, and does not discriminate on the basis of, gender, race, protected veteran status, disability, or any other legally protected status.